FRIENDS ARE ALL AROUND US.

Friends are all around us;
Even the little child
Loves the stranger whom he met
Who looked on him and smiled.
Friends are all around us,
If as friends we greet
Those whom in our journeying,
On life's worn way we meet.

Friends are all around us;
By a kindly word,
By a look of sympathy,
The heart's depths are stirred.
Do not all our footsteps
To the same home tend?
Why should not each one of us
Be to each a friend?

Does the pure dew, glistening
On the fair wild rose,
Shun the dark unlovely weed
That beside it grows?
Does the sunbeam, shining
On the stately dome,
Lose its lustre when it rests
On the peasant's home?

If one heart grows lighter
By our words made glad—
If one weary spirit,
Drooping, faint, and sad,
Half forgets its anguish
For a little while—
Is it vain for us to speak?
Vain for us to smile?

One word, kindly spoken,
Simple though it be,
Is often sweetest music
In the hours of agony—
One look, kindly given,
When the lips move not,
May be treasured in the heart,
Ne'er to be forgot.

There's an "open sesame"
To each human heart,
At whose magic sound, at once
Freely thrown apart,
Are the close-barred portals
Of its deepest cell.
Bidding us in friendship's name
Enter in and dwell.

Friends are all around us;
There's a gentle tone
Whereso'er we wander,
Answering to our own.
Do not all our foot-steps
To the same home tend?
Why should not each one of us
Be to each a friend?

PENCIL SKETCHES OF TRAVEL.

Letter V.

76 Stone House, Tappan, Rockland Co.,
New York, Aug. 8th, 1846.

MY DEAR JACKSON.—After taking supper, as I wrote you, in a former letter, we went up the narrow lane, about 11 o'clock, leading to Major Andre's grave. It was a serene and beautiful night, and nature was arrayed in her most bewitching charms.—No cloud could be seen in the blue starry heavens above, and not a leaf was moving on the quiet green earth around. On the summit of the hill, our guide, the landlord's son, suddenly stopped, and, pointing to a large stone which was located between two small trees, exclaimed, "This here is where they hung Andre." I paused and sat down on the stone, to think of other days, and the stirring scenes which had been witnessed on this very spot, by those who are now peacefully slumbering in their narrow beds. My mind was well prepared for such reflections at that time, and I could have enjoyed the occasion, had not the loquacious little Dutch rascal kept up such a stream of words, that I hardly knew where I was, or what I was about. He began to enquire of my friend about his horses, and was anxious to make a trade; such talk as this, had a decided tendency to dissipate all my romantic feelings, and I was half inclined to discharge the fellow, and send him home. How preposterous the idea to be closing a bargain for a horse trade, upon the very spot where Major Andre was hung, and where his ashes had reposed for more than half a century! More than ever did I sigh for a sweet retreat in some sequestered grove, where the busy hum of the world is never echoed, and where the vulgarisms of common wayfarers can under no circumstances intrude themselves. But I am in the world, and must, therefore, to a certain extent, be of the world. He became more quiet at last, and I passed an hour very pleasantly, thinking of the stormy and trying days of the Revolution, until I seemed to live them over in imagination, and was almost a participator in those glorious events. I then thought of old Newport, and sighed for a friend to enjoy the occasion with me. Previous to leaving, I broke off several pieces of the rock, and took them with me, as valuable relics of an important transaction in the history of our country; you shall have one of these little treasures on my return. Some years ago, the relatives of Major Andre, in England, were anxious to have his remains transported to that country, to be interred under a monument which was long since erected to his memory. The Duke of York took a decided part in the matter, and finally, in August, 1831, he commissioned Mr. Buchanan, who was British Consul at New York, at the time, to perform this duty.—He came here for that purpose, and, singular as it may seem, was actually opposed by many of the residents of the place, who were determined that the removal should not take place. These, however, were among the less intelligent portion of the community, and he ingeniously bought them over to his side, or silenced their tumult, by directing the landlord of this house to open his bar to the natives, and allow them a free use of his liquors during the day. This had the desired effect, and he met with no further opposition. There was an immense concourse of people at the grave to witness the ceremony, and many of them were there at the time of his execution; to such it was an exceedingly interesting occasion. As soon as the stones were cleared away, and the grave was found, not a tongue moved amongst the multitude.—breathless anxiety was depicted in every countenance. When at length one of the men cried out that he had touched the coffin, so great was the enthusiasm at this moment, that it was found necessary to call in the aid of several of the ladies to form an enlarged circle, so that all could see the operation. This being done, the workmen proceeded with the greatest caution, and the clay was removed with the hands, as soon as it was discovered that the lid of the coffin was broken in the centre. With great care the broken lid was removed, and there lay the bones of the brave Andre, in perfect order! Many discovered, for the first time, that he was a small man. This observation was made from the skeleton, which was confined by some present. The roots of the small peach tree, which had stood at the head of the grave, had completely surrounded the skull like a net. After allowing all the people to pass round in regular order, and view the remains as they lay, which very many did with unfeigned tears and lamentation, the bones were carefully removed, and placed in the sarcophagus. Nothing was found in the coffin, save a string of leather that had tied his hair in perfect preservation, coiled and tied as it had been on his hair at the time of his execution. This string Mr. Buchanan forwarded to Andre's sister in England, as a valuable relic of one whom she dearly loved and deified upon. His remains were sent to London, where they arrived safely, and were deposited near the monument which had been erected to his memory in the Abbey, and a marble slab placed at the foot of the monument, on which is set forth their removal by order of his royal highness, the Duke of York.

Major Andre's watch, which he had parted with while a prisoner, was also obtained by Mr. Buchanan, and sent to Andre's sister.

I have material enough for another letter, relative to this place, but I shall reserve it until my return here to-morrow evening, after a visit to Rockland Lake, and its vicinity. I shall write you next from New City, the county town of this county, or from Clarkstown.

Yours always, FLORIO.

Two Yankees says the Philadelphia Ledger, took lodgings for about ten days, at a tavern in Lancaster County, and fared sumptuously, drinking two or three bottles of wine daily. The last day a dispute arose about the speed of their horses; they at last agreed to enter on the "profitable contest." The landlord was appointed judge, each being the rider of his own horse. When they were mounted, the judge, like those of the Olympic games, gave the words; one, two, three, and "go." Off they went, and have never been heard of since, leaving the landlord fully compensated by having had the honor to be their judge.

A Young Cain.—A little boy in Abbeville, S. C., a few days since, the son of a widow five, about six or seven years of age, killed his brother, aged about three months, whilst their mother was absent on an errand to a neighbor. We learn from the Banner that "returning, the child was missing, and after searching a while for it was found laid away among some bushes near the yard, with its head gashed in two or three places. The boy, when interrogated upon the subject, replied that the child had fallen out of the door, and in going out himself, he accidentally let an axe fall upon it that he was holding in his hand. Although there is no positive evidence to prove him guilty of intentional murder, yet the jury of inquest were unanimous in the opinion that such were his intentions."

A motion was made by a member of the Legislature of a Western State to lay a tax on horses, cows, asses, and other domestic animals. A member moved to strike out the word asses, or to amend the resolutions by inserting the word "quadruped" after animals, else, he argued, the law might operate erroneously on the mover of the resolution and other honorable members of the House.

Engine Company No. 8, of Providence, arrived in town last evening in the Perry, from Fall River. They were met on the wharf by Companies No. 4 and 7, and the Hook and Ladder Company, and after organizing, marched through several of our streets with torches, and headed by a band of music which accompanied Company No. 8. They made a fine appearance.

We perceive by the New York papers that William M. Price, Esq., formerly District Attorney of the U.S. for the Northern District of New York, committed suicide in a Pistol Gallery, on Tuesday last, by blowing out his brains. Pecuniary embarrassment was the cause of this rash act.

We hardly receive an exchange paper that does not contain a letter from Newport, giving glowing descriptions of the gayety here, and the delightful manner in which the thousands are enjoying themselves. Ah, there is no watering place like Newport.

The Bill appropriating two millions of dollars for the Mexican war, was defeated in the Senate, by Senator Davis, who spoke against time, until within one minute of the hour of adjournment.

Among the last acts of the Senate, was the confirmation of Silas A. Comstock, as Naval Officer at Providence.

The Jamaica (L. I.) Farmer says the disease among horses at that place, has not at all abated. Over one hundred of these valuable animals have died in this town during the last three weeks, and it has now made its appearance among the mules, and several have died.

Herr Alexander's exhibition last evening, fully equalled all his former ones. Something entirely new this evening.

Congress was in session eight months and eight days.

The house of Correction in South Boston has at present forty more convicts in it than there are cells, an occurrence which has never been known in this institution before.

INSANE.—Mr Walker, the editor of the Bangor Gazette, took to himself a wife last week.

Out of 2400 troops, who have departed from New Orleans for the seat of war, 1500 are Irish and Germans.

Another basket of delicious Peaches from Riner yesterday. He has "a few more left of the same sort," besides every other kind of fruit that can be obtained in the New York market.

The Steamer Great Western is doing a pretty good business. The freight that she brought over on her last trip amounted to over $10,000, exclusive of the passengers and mail. She brought 138 passengers from Liverpool, and landed 139 in New York, having increased one on her passage.

The Boston Post says the flies in that city have held a public meeting, and passed resolutions, condemning the plan of covering up dishes, as it deprives them of the means of subsistence. Very wise flies, those.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Polka dance is three hundred years old.

We were presented yesterday with a splendid bunch of flowers by George Turner, Esq. Editors, poor devils, occasionally find their path strewn with flowers, and when they do, they know how to appreciate the motives of those who are thus trying to cheer them on.

John B. Gough, the great temperance advocate, is very sick and not expected to live, at Liberty, Va.

PROCLAMATION AGAINST WOMEN.—In the year 1517, a proclamation was issued in England that women should not meet together to babble and talk; and that all men should keep their wives in their houses.

Among those who are now visiting here, we notice the Hon. John Slidell, late minister to Mexico.

Capt. Howland makes a trip to Sagconnet on Saturday, in his smack Maria, on a fishing excursion. The M. has been undergoing repairs, and is now in fine order. She leaves Deven's Wharf at 9 o'clock A. M.

There was a little boy and girl playing a fiddle and tambourine in our streets yesterday. We should think their mamma would miss them at nursing time.

We often see ludicrous mistakes in daily papers. It is not strange, but it is provoking. The alteration of a single word or even a letter will often change the meaning of a sentence and make it not only void of sense but sometimes vulgar. Let the reader realize that when an editor of a morning paper takes his seat at his desk in the morning of the day before, he has his whole paper to provide for, and that the printers have over fifty thousand pieces of metal and types to set in their proper places, so as to form reading, with stops, spaces, &c. He will be ready to excuse mistakes either in writing or printing. What business within the whole range of human invention compares with that of issuing a daily paper? The cares, troubles and perplexities are innumerable. It is not mere toil—far from it. The business partakes of everything requiring mind, business habits, and energy of character. So please excuse mistakes of editors and printers.

It is stated that Mr. T. D. Woolsey, the Greek Professor of Yale College, will probably be elected President of that institution at the commencement on the 20 inst.

It is estimated that there are in Paris 10,000 thieves, and in London five times that number.

"Good morning, Mr. Jenkins—where have you kept yourself this long time?" "Kept myself! I don't keep myself—I board on credit."

ALARMING DISEASE AMONG HORSES.—A fatal complaint has made its appearance among the horses at Hempstead, L. I., and its vicinity, and no less than thirty-eight animals have fallen victims to it within the last few days. It is a disease similar to the "blind staggers."

A person who lives to the age of sixty, spends twenty years in sleeping, three years in eating, and how many in vain pursuit, and chasing jack-o'-lanterns, we have no means of ascertaining.

Many a poor man's earnings, brought home day by day, are carried out of the house on the backs of his fashionable daughters.

A little boy lately walked nearly a mile, carrying on his shoulder an iron article which weighs twelve hundred pounds! Don't start, reader; the article was patent steel yards.

Owing to previous arrangement Manchester & brother will be under the necessity of closing their Daguerreotype Rooms, corner of Thames and Mary-sts. Newport, within a short time, (probably eight or ten days,) therefore would say to the good people of this place who wish to present their friends with an invaluable memento, that they can never do better than to give us a call soon. Young lady, bring in that venerable father and that watchful mother, and secure a good likeness to-day, for to-morrow it may be too late. Mothers, bring in those little ones with curling hair and sparkling eyes; they will make pretty pictures, and then, should they be taken from you, you can exclaim, in the language of the poet—
"Gone to their rest, yet we would not recall them
Back to this region of sorrow and pain;
Gone to their rest where no ill can befall them—
Yet we have their likeness both perfect and plain."

We recommended her to use that excellent Medicated Compound, RADWAY'S CHINESE MEDICATED SOAP, she complied with our request, and in three days there was not a single spot, bluish, pimple, or blotch left upon her skin, and her complexion is now as fair as the Lily.

CORNS!
MADAM BERNARD, Corn Doctor, (from Paris) politely announces her arrival from N. York, to the citizens and visitors of Newport, and will feel obliged to those who will honor her with a call, at Mr. ELISHA S. KENYON'S, corner of Thames and Young-streets the honor to inform the public that, by a new and peculiar method, she extracts Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Callouses, &c., Without Cutting.

Madam B. does not attempt to offer a nostrum, requiring secrecy or faith to require its efficacy, but confidently assuring those who may suffer from troublesome and painful Corns, that they may have the satisfaction of carrying away their tormentor, their Corn, in their hands.

Madam B. has been practising in the U. States for six years, and in that time she has received testimonials from some of the most eminent ladies and gentlemen, as to the benefit and comfort which they have received since their feet have been attended to by her. The operation will not occupy more than 10 minutes, and the relief is so instantaneous that persons thus treated can put on their shoes and walk without the least inconvenience.

Madam B. has practised her profession for several years in Boston, New York, Germany, France, and England, and has acquired much skill, and great practical experience—a fact attested by numerous certificates from the most celebrated physicians both of Europe and America, as well as from the nobility and gentry of those countries, delivered to her after four months' cure.

Ladies and gentlemen will be waited upon at their residence.

Ladies and gentlemen who wish Madam B's services, are invited to call as soon as possible.

Madam B. has in her possession upwards of 1,500 certificates.

From the Philadelphia Enquirer and Courier
RELIEF TO THE AFFLICTED.—We alluded a few days since to the remarkable, efficacious and painless method adopted by Madam Bernard, of 459 Broadway, N. Y. and 151 Court street, Boston, in extracting Corns and curing troublesome Tumors of the feet. We are now induced to refer again to the subject, partly in consequence of more than one friend having called upon us to record their testimony as to the sudden and entire relief they have experienced from the operation of Professor; and chiefly because so many persons are in the habit of advertising remedies for Corns, &c., which are mere empiricism and pretence. The parties who are now in our office, and who have been under the treatment of Madam Bernard, assures us that they did not experience the slightest pain during the process of extraction, and that it was accomplished within almost magical celerity. We observe also that some of the most eminent Physicians, both of Boston and New York, as well as of this city, have given testimonials to the above effect to Madam Bernard, the writers having experienced a relief from Corns, which had pained them for years. From the Boston Atlas.

Madam Bernard, at 151 Court street, is said by those who have experienced relief at her hands, to effect a radical cure of the most inveterate Corns. There is said to be no mistake about it. It is a great discovery, and we recommend all the afflicted to try.

If I can but induce the people to call upon me, I will give them the most positive proof of the truth of this assertion, as I am determined to secure for the United States Clothing Store a tremendous run of custom, and aware as I am, that competition is so severe, that the only mode of success is to offer my Goods at a small advance on Cost. Will the people call upon me? I will give them the most positive and pleasing evidence of what I say; still more, I will not urge them with undue persuasion to purchase what they do not want.
